THE CRISP AND VIGOROUS DECLARATION OF MASSACHUSETTS REPUBLICANS.

ALL THE PRESENT STATE OFFICERS RENOM INATED AT ONE OF THE SHORTEST, MOST ENTHUSIASTIC AND . HARMONIOUS

CONVENTIONS ON RECORD.

Beston, Oct. 6. The Republican State Convention held in Music Hall to-day was one of the shortest on record, lasting from 10:35 o'clock when the gavel fell, until 12.30, or less than two hours. It was also a perfectly harmonious body, not a voice being raised in the spirit of contention or criticism. It was an enthusiastic convention, too, and there was evidently a strong determination on the part of the delegates to make the victory in November a significant one. The entire State ticket was renominated by acclamation, as follows:

For Gavernor-FREDERIC T. GREENHALGE, Lieutenant-Governor-ROGER WOLCOTT, of

Tressurer and Receiver-General-HENRY M. PHILLIUS, of Springfield, Attorney-General-HOSEA M. KNOWLTON, of Secretary of State-WILLIAM M. OLIN, of

Auditor-JOHN W. KIMBALL, of Fitchburg. The platform adopted was remarkable for its brevity and for the sharp, incisive expression of the fundamental principles of the party. It was the briefest platform ever adopted by a political party in Massachusetts, and as Senator Hoar, the chairman of the Committee on Resolutions, read those short, crisp sentences he was repeatedly interrupted by a storm of applause. This was especially noticeable when he read the sentences bearing upon the public school question and that relating to old soldiers in almshouses. The platform is as follows:

The principles of the Republicans of Massa-chusetts are as well-known as the commonwealth liself; well-known as the Republic; well-known as liberty; well-known as justice. Chief among them

An equal chare in government for every citizen.

Best possible wages for every workman.

In conversation with a Tribune correspondent today Mr. Bowers, of Berkeley County, who is an active member of the Republican Congressional Committee, said:

"The only hope the Democrats have of carrying the district for Wilson is in the use of a huge corruption fund. A week ago yesterday a large amount of Democratic campaign money was sent into the district from Washington. I am credibly informed that the amount was $30,000, and that it was accompanied by assurances that as much more would be furnished if required. Sums as large as $500 have already been exhibited by Democratic 'workers,' not one of whom probably ever before had $40 in his possession at one time in his life. They are loud with offers of wagers on Wilson's election, and show money to back their offers. Everybody knows that so big a sum as $30,000 could not be expended to meet the legitimate expenses of a Democratic campaign in that Congress district. Of course, all the Federal officeholders in the district are under orders to strain every nerve in favor of Wilson, but their influence is less than it would be if there were not so many Democrats who have been disappointed because he would no' condescend to urge,
or, in many cases, even to testee, their applications for office. No, the only thing the Democratic really depend on in this campaign is the lavish use of money during the last few days before the election.
If the election could take place to-morrow Wilson
would be defeated by a round majority."

"What, in your opinion, is the prospect of Republican success," asked the correspondent.

"It is good On a full vote the district is close,
but this year there is a great deal of Democratic disaffection. Many Democrats will vote for the Republican candidate, according to present indications, and many more will refuse to vote for Wilson. He was never any stronger than his party, and he only ran three votes ahead of his ficket two years ago. At that election a good many Republicans failed to vote their party ticket, who are very

MR. WILSON HAS NOT READ THE SIGNS. HE ARRIVED HERE YESTERDAY, THINKS HILL IS A WINNER, AND MAKES A SUR-PRISING PREDICTION

William L. Wilson, the father of the slaughtered Wilson bill, who recently made a free trade speech at a dinner in London, was a passenger on the American Line steamer New-York, which arrived here yesterday from Southampton. Mr. Wilson was looking well, and had lost that look of care which had when he went abroad. Mr. Wilson said: did not go abroad to talk politics, and so took r politics with me. At the banquet in London I did not talk politics, but said what I thought. That speech expressed fully my present views on the tariff question. At the banque: of the Chamber of Commerce in London I told them that I be lieved that free trade was coming for us in this country, and that it would mean the supremacy of American manufactures. Some criticism has been made about my attending a banquet given by English free traders, but there is no necessity for my making any explanation. I was invited to a dinner as any man prominent in any great move ment in this country would have been. I was asked to speak, and I naturally did. I made just prospects for business in this country are good. I understand that things are already livening up. At the next Presidential election our party will

At the next Presidential election our party win win."

When Mr. Wilson's hearers had recovered from the effects of this most positively made statement, he was asked what he thought of the State campaign. He answered. "I think Hill is a winner. I have just hear! of Justice Gaynor's withdrawal, and I am sorry it weakens the ticket. Gaynor and Hill would have made a strong ticket."

Wher asked about the great decrease in the Democratic majority in Georgia, Mr. Wilson said: "Oh. I cannot talk about that. I do not know enough about it. I must find out more about it before I talk about it. I am going right back to my district, and plunge into the campaign. I am confident that I shall win. I expect to start for home to-night."

New-York had little trouble in making four more goals. There was a good-sized crowd present, and the livelest interest was manifested. The New-York eleven showed excellent team work, and that the careful coaching of Captain Trainor had a good effect. Gavin and Upton made an excellent showing, while McKay's play at goal was superb. FEW SALES OF REALTY.

LIGHT BUSINESS IN THE AUCTION ROOMS.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IMPROVING - CONVEY-ANCES, MORTGAGES AND PROJECTED

BUILDINGS There was little doing in the real estate auction rooms, and the volume of business transacted showed a material failing off from last week. The confined to Wednesday and Thursday, and included two foreclosures, which realized $48,150 Hesides these sales, there were four other offerings two of which secured buyers.

Richard V. Harnett & Co.'s sale of No. 10 West Eighty-seventh-st. at the Real Estate Exchange on Thursday met the usual fate of West Side dwellings sold under the hammer. It was knocked down for less than its actual value, at $29,000. On the same day S. De Walltearss offered on the Exchange 192 Bleecker-st. It was bought in on a bid of $20,500. At the Broadway Salesroom on Thursday Peter F. Meyer & Co. offered for account of Henry Morgenthau two lots at the southwest corner of Amsterdam-ave, and One-hundred-and-eightieth-st The sale is said to have been ordered for the pose of stablishing a low value, in order to affect the price of 160x40 feet, part of a plot on the opposite, or northerly, side of One-hundred-and-eightleth-st, which is to be taken for the opening of the street. The less paid for the lots the lower would be the assessments on the lots benefited, nearly all of which were disposed of at the Morgenthau syndi-cate sale in June, 1891, with an agreement that the sellers would pay the assessments for the opening of One-hundred-and-eightleth-st. They sold for $9,400 from sale during the week by William Kennelly property in Edgecombe and Bradhurst aves., south of One-hundred-and-fifty-fifth-st., which will be re Road, north of One-hundred-and-eighty-fourth The sales at auction amounted in value to $88,700, against $256,863 her week, $436,523 in the week before that, and $196,045 in the corresponding week last year. One reason of the small amount of business done was the absence from the market of investors of Hebrew faith who were celebrating on Monday and Tuesday a holiday. In Brooklyn the sales amounted in value to $216,335, against $79,195 last week, and $162,776 in the same week a year ago Building operations continue to improve ment is active in all parts of the city, and is the nost encouraging feature of the real estate market The number of plans filed with the Building Department last week showed an increase of twenty eight over last week, and in the amount of money involved the increase was $393,795.

CHARGED BY ALBERT H. KING WITH FRAUD.

GENERAL NEGLEY ARRESTED

SAID TO HAVE SECURED $3.000 FROM THE COM-PLAINANT AND MADE A LONG TRIP

General James S. Negley, of New-Jersey, has been arrested by the Sheriff upon an order granted by Justice Lawrence, of the Supreme Court, in an which has been brought against him by Albert H. King, of Brooklyn, to recover $3,000, which it is alleged was secured from him by false and fraudulent representations. Mr. Negley gave ball in $1,000 and was released.

Mr. King, through his lawver, James M. Fisk, complains that in September or October, 1890, the King Locomotive Works was desirous of securing $60,000 through the sale of its bonds. Mr. Negley represented to Mr. King that he was the president of the Mexican Trust and Investment Company, which could regotiate the sale of the bonds and could even purchase them. He made an inspection of the King Locomotive Works, and then informed Mr. King that the only thing left for him to do to onsummate the purchase was to go to London and Paris to make the final arrangements. General Negley in January, 1891, informed Mr. King that he had received a cable message from Paris to the effect that the business had been settled and that the sale of the $500,000 of bonds had been concluded at the rate of 80 per cent of their par value, payable $20,000 in cash upon the bonds being deposited and the balance of $20,000 payable on the completion of the King Locomotive Works. A few days later General Negley told Mr. King that the sale had been consummated and that all that remained to be done was for him (Negley) to go to Europe and penses. Mr. King loaned him the $1,000.

Mr. King declares that on May 30, 1891, the General told him that the bonds had not been sold; that, in fact, nothing had been done; that the Mexican Trust and Investment Company could not assume any responsibility and that his promises could not be responsibility and that his promises could not be carried out. Mr. King charges that the statements which were made to him by General Negley were false in every particular; that the Mexican Trust Company had no financial standing and that it was merely organized on paper. General Negley, however, had his trip to Europe, where he was for several months; spent the money which was borrowed from Mr. King and then returned to this country. He has a place at Plainfield, N₁ J., where he lives in handsome style. General Negley was saved the discomfiture of being confined in Ludlow Street Jail by furnishing the $1,000 ball required. ever, had his trip to Europe, where he was for sev

Depew is "faid up." and he had to leave his office in the Grand Central Station Frielay-afternoon and go to his country place in Dobba Ferry, there to remain until he is better. The centre-of disturbance in the body of the president of the New-York Central Railroad has been located by Dr. Francia E. Doughty in the region of the right leg-had not as yet been fixed down permanently and his foot slipped through. The accident, however, was worse than this one, and the trouble from this one will not. I feel sure, last long."

"Where is he now?" said the reporter.
"He's in Dobbs Ferry," said Mr. Du Val. "You can ring him up if you like."
"Hello, Dobbs Ferry," said the reporter through the reporter throug

the telephone. "Give me Chauncey M. Depew."
"What," said the telephone man, "give you our giving him to you, never!" Then there came a buzzing, then ringing, followed by the old time and long-established "Helio!"

"Is this Mr. Depew?" said the reporter.
"It is," came the answer, and then after a silence of some seconds the reporter could hear his voice as though addressing a third person, who stood beside him near the "phone." Irapossible, you know; we have shut down completely on pas.

New York Central Railroad has been located by Dr. Prancia E. Doughty in the region of the right leg, which has met and borne many a strain—and borne it successfully—as the popular orator on a hundred platforms has bent his knees and gesticulated with his arms to help carry conviction to the minds of the multitude. That one of his legs—and, above all, his right leg—should prove recalcitrant, so to speak, at this critical period of a critical political campaign will be heard of with sore disappolatment by thousands of his admirers, who will hasten, however, to put aside their anxiety when they learn, as the reporter learned yesterday from Mr. Depea's own lips, that he will be "on deck again on Monday."

H. C. Du Val, his secretary, explained to the reporter yesterday when he called at Mr. Depea's office in Forty-second-st, just exactly what was the matter with Mr. Depea's leg. "He strained it," Mr. Du Val said, 'in jumping over the high wheel of a wagon in Lenox on Saturday last. People may be confused as to the exact leg," he went on, 'but it is well to remember that it is the left leg which was affected a few years ago and not this one, In regard to that accident, you will remember that it occurred while Mr. Depew was walking over the flooring in his house, in West Fifty-fourth-st. The planks had not as yet been fixed down permanently and his foot slipped through. The accidept, however, was worse than this one, and the trouble from this one will not, I feel sure, last long."

"Where is he now?" said the reporter.

"He's in Dobbs Ferry," said Mr. Du Val. "You
